

Hospitality

From representing large international conglomerates to small boutique hotels, to investors and lenders in US, European and other international markets, Katten attorneys understand your unique legal needs and challenges within the hospitality sector.

A hands-on, collaborative approach

Our strength in the industry is derived from the depth of our experience across multiple practices and our ability to work closely together to promote and advance your interests. Employing a multidisciplinary approach, we take advantage of the vast resources of a large law firm, combined with the cost-effectiveness and agility of a smaller firm.

Our approach is practical, not theoretical. Our attorneys have had hands-on experience, including working in-house at hospitality companies, which has fostered both keen oversight of the broader dynamics in the hospitality industry, as well as insight into the full range of day-to-day operational issues, enabling us to provide legal services in the main areas of transactions, crisis management and operations.
