Mario Robertson helps clients in the financial services industry facing litigation and regulatory enforcement, internal investigations, and other complex commercial litigation.

Commitment to clients and community

Mario served as the managing articles editor of the Journal of Criminal Law and Criminology at Northwestern University Pritzker School of Law. He was vice president of Community Outreach for the Black Law Students Association and a member of the Student Bar Association's Admissions Committee. He also participated in the Criminal Defense Clinic, where he helped to represent clients in criminal cases.

Additionally, Mario serves as the co-chair of the NextGen Leadership Council for Civil Rights. The NextGen Council works with the Chicago Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights to create opportunities for young leaders to act through pro bono legal work, hosts public educational events that include community activists and leaders and develops concrete resources to support communities most impacted by poverty and racial inequality.
