With a combination of law firm and in-house experience, Andrea Prell offers a well-rounded perspective to her real estate clients. She represents landlords and tenants in various types of leasing, including industrial, office and retail leasing, along with advising clients on other contractual and real estate legal matters that arise. Andrea's background positions her to assist clients in navigating a broad spectrum of complex transactions involving various sectors and asset types.

Strategic and client-focused counsel

Having previously worked in-house for one of the largest owners of industrial real estate, Andrea understands the importance of achieving her clients' goals in an efficient and detail-oriented manner. She draws on her experience to offer business-minded counsel during every stage of a transaction. Andrea strives to successfully represent her clients and deliver results with their best interests in mind while balancing the importance of the client-customer relationship that comes with lease negotiations.
