Harold Davidson is the go-to advisor for a variety of transaction practice matters, from the routine to the most complex strategic transactions and creative joint-venture structures. Harold's is a global practice, which covers a wide range of matters involving mergers and acquisitions, private equity investments, special-purpose acquisition companies, startups, joint ventures and structured finance arrangements.

Inquisitive and incisive approach drives creative solutions

Learning about his client's needs and desired outcomes drives Harold's approach to helping them navigate complex business transactions, including private and public mergers and acquisitions, principal and private equity investments, securities offerings, joint ventures, restructurings, and structured finance arrangements. As a thorough, adaptable counsel and strategic advisor, Harold frequently represents public and private companies in corporate finance and governance matters, and private equity and venture capital firms on investments in public and private companies.

With a cross-border practice, Harold works with clients doing business in the United Kingdom, France, Germany, India, Colombia, Luxembourg and the Cayman Islands. He understands the needs of established businesses, entrepreneurial startups and investment-driven clients and has experience working with them in a variety of industries, including financial institutions, media and entertainment, technology and information security, alternative energy, alcohol beverage, health care and real estate.
