Anne Rolwes provides practical counsel to banks, finance companies, issuers, and public and private businesses in structuring, documenting and negotiating finance transactions, including acquisition financings, refinancings, restructurings, first and second lien credit facilities and mezzanine financing. She has experience providing counsel in cross-border and multicurrency financing transactions. Her experience spans a variety of industries, including the insurance, financial services, software and technology, and health care industries. She frequently collaborates with other practice groups and international firms to provide well-rounded, informed analyses of issues for her clients.
