When leading lenders or their capital sources need regulatory advice about the lenders' compliance or operations, they turn to Christina Grigorian. Clients rely on Christina's thorough understanding of the complex regulatory environment in which lenders do business, as well as her practical approach to compliance and understanding of the broader credit market. Her clients include banks, bank holding companies, and state-licensed consumer and commercial lenders, as well as providers of capital to lending businesses.

The regulatory advice lenders need to succeed

Christina's first priority when advising clients is to ensure that the products they offer or deals they fund comply with all applicable laws related to providing consumer or commercial credit in the US marketplace. For every client, she develops a thorough understanding of the operational, market and reputational challenges they face in order to provide the most actionable, practical compliance advice.

Christina finds solutions that allow her clients to finance transactions or conduct business with the assurance that all credit-related regulatory issues have been addressed. These are usually complex matters that demand painstaking attention to detail, while staying mindful of overarching business objectives and the market in which products will be offered.

One of Christina's most complicated transactions required more than six bank regulatory applications before it closed. That persistence is typical of her work, but so is the creativity that she has shown in advising clients on complexities related to business relationships that bring new products to market. In addition to her extensive work for lenders, she also conducts third-party consumer and commercial lender audits on behalf of capital sources.
