Alyse Sagalchik primarily represents both private and public companies in a variety of capital markets and other securities transactions, including initial and follow-on public offerings, placements of equity and debt securities, and going-private transactions, as well as mergers and acquisitions and other corporate matters. In addition, Alyse regularly represents investment banks and Canadian and other non-United States issuers in connection with cross-border capital raising transactions, as well as US registration and stock exchange listing matters. She also counsels entrepreneurs, high-growth companies and investors who invest in such companies, and maintains an active pro bono practice, representing victims of domestic violence and asylum seekers, among others.

Full-service assistance with corporate and securities matters

Alyse builds relationships with clients operating in a wide range of industries, including health care, technology (including, cryptoassets and blockchain technology), banking, education, manufacturing, and beauty and other consumer products. She develops a deep understanding of their businesses to provide legal advice tailored to their specific needs. Because of her experience working with clients across several industries on a variety of corporate matters, including public and private capital transactions, corporate governance matters, and strategic and financial mergers and acquisitions, Alyse is able to find efficient solutions to address her clients' needs and navigate relevant US securities laws and other applicable requirements.
