As cross-border business grows increasingly subject to disruptive shifts in markets, industries and geopolitical realities, effective international counsel becomes even more crucial. Katten represents US and foreign clients in cross-border transactions, disputes and regulatory matters from the United States and through well-established offices in London and Shanghai.

Multidisciplinary counsel in the UK

Lawyers in our London office support clients across a number of business areas. Our London-based team plays a key role in financial services projects on both sides of the Atlantic. We advise sponsors of all kinds on the structuring and financing of cross-border transactions. We are involved in various forms of dispute resolution, conduct internal investigations for US companies facing European regulators, perform asset recovery in cases of loan fraud, and defend both companies and individuals in white-collar criminal matters. We are highly active in the real estate and hospitality markets, with multidisciplinary skills attuned to private equity real estate investors, and we have significant capabilities in corporate, finance and asset management. Alongside these particular strengths, we offer a full-service practice that meets the full spectrum of needs our clients face in these areas.

"[Katten is] well-connected around the world, which has helped us with being able to go to one firm for all of our needs."
