

Katten Contributes Three Chapters to Aviation Law 2019 Guide

Published by International Comparative Legal Guides (ICLG)

January 28, 2019

Privacy, Data and Cybersecurity partner Alan Meneghetti, along with associate Yasmin Roland, authored three chapters in the ICLG's "Aviation Law 2019" guide, which covers common issues in aviation laws and regulations—including aircraft trading, finance and leasing, litigation and dispute resolution—in 30 jurisdictions.

The Use of Personal Data in the Commercial Aviation Industry

This chapter explores instances where, and at which points, personal data is collected in the commercial aviation industry. It looks at how personal data might be collected (for example, automatically or by its submission by the data subject), what the potential uses of that personal data are, and the regulations, such as the EU General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR), that affects it.

WALA: 10 Years of Growth in the Airport Sector

This chapter reviews the history of the Worldwide Airports Lawyers Association (WALA), of which Alan is on the Executive Board, and the top legal issues of 2019 facing the aviation industry.

United Kingdom

This chapter provides an overview of the aviation regulatory agencies and legislation for the United Kingdom. It also analyzes key topics, such as aircraft trading, finance and leasing and litigation, for the industry through a UK lens. Additionally, it offers an outlook of potential regulatory changes or other developments likely to affect the industry during the next two years.
