Responsible AI: A Global Policy Framework

Published by the International Technology Law Association

June 4, 2019

Doron Goldstein, co-head of the firm's Privacy, Data and Cybersecurity practice, was a contributing author to the International Technology Law Association's new book entitled, Responsible AI: A Global Policy Framework. This in-depth publication, written by a multi-disciplinary group of technology lawyers, industry representatives and researchers from 16 countries, develops a detailed and actionable framework for artificial intelligence (AI) implementations composed of eight core principles. Doron provided his insights in his focus area of privacy and security. The book is a call to action for stakeholders, including the general public, to actively participate in a dialogue regarding the component features of responsible AI.
