

The Transactional In-House Lawyer's Guide to Copyright Infringement Litigation

Published in IP Litigator

January/February 2014

While large media companies have entire legal departments devoted to defending litigation, a smaller company may have only one in-house counsel, usually someone more familiar with business transactions than defending claims. This article provides a list of action items to guide a transactional lawyer through the management of a company's initial response to a copyright infringement claim.
