

Tips on Using Priority Foreign Filings

Published in Managing Intellectual Property

September 2006

A company that has a trade mark filing in place in a foreign jurisdiction has multiple options when considering an expansion of its trade mark rights into the United States. Specifically, `<st1:country-region w:st="on">US</st1:country-region>` trade mark law provides several mechanisms pursuant to which a foreign trade mark owner can use the priority established by a foreign trade mark filing when making a filing in the United States.
