From government investigations through trials, Scott Resnik helps individuals and corporations manage every stage of the criminal justice system. He is deeply familiar with it, after more than 25 years of work as a federal prosecutor and defense attorney. The insights he has gained along the way have led to repeated success in resolving investigations, trials and appeals.

A seasoned trial advocate

Before joining Katten, Scott spent more than six years as an assistant US attorney in the District of New Jersey. There, he gained extensive trial experience prosecuting a series of high-profile white collar and public corruption cases. As a defense lawyer, he has continued to try cases regularly, including earning acquittals on multiple counts for a pharmaceutical executive following a seven-week trial. He has also won a number of precedent-setting appeals in federal criminal cases.

Scott helps individual executives and corporations across all industries — with particular experience in health care and financial services — through every step of a criminal or regulatory action. He assists them in resolving government investigations, and for those that are charged with a crime, he defends them throughout the criminal process.

He has handled dozens of investigations for hedge funds, broker-dealers and health care providers into allegations ranging from tax fraud to violations of the federal Medicare Anti-Kickback Statute. He also regularly represents clients in large insider trading investigations, touching on issues from stock price manipulation to violations of confidentiality agreements.

kickback statutes related to nationwide sales practices of opioid pain-killer products.

- Represented president of a pharmaceutical company in a seven-week federal criminal jury trial in the US District Court for the Eastern District of New York. The case concerned the alleged importation of pharmaceuticals that were not approved by the FDA. Obtained acquittals on the most serious counts in the indictment.
- Represented former SEC employee in federal criminal computer hacking prosecution resulting in the U.S. Attorney's Office dropping all felony charges.
- Represented religious leader in labor-based human-trafficking investigation conducted by the DOJ that resulted in no criminal charges being filed against client.
- Regularly represent high-profile clients in large, complex insider trading and securities fraud investigations in the US District Courts for the Southern and Eastern Districts of New York and the District of New Jersey.
- Represented corporate officers in FCPA investigations. Drafted FCPA compliance and training programs for multinational businesses.
- Represented a senior broker in an investigation by the CFTC and DOJ as part of a global probe into the potential manipulation of a key interest-rate benchmark. Investigation concluded with no criminal or regulatory charges filed against client.
- Represented a senior officer of a technology company in US Attorney's Office and SEC investigations relating to stock option backdating activities.
- Regularly represent clients facing investigations and charges of racketeering, health care fraud, customs violations, commodities and securities fraud, currency reporting violations, environmental crime, computer crime, and criminal antitrust violations. Work closely with clients to develop litigation strategies that minimize their exposure to fraud and criminal activity and use civil racketeering and fraud actions to recover treble and punitive damages.
- Represent publicly traded national construction entity and its subsidiary in an integrity review conducted by the Inspector General's Office of the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey.
