Maggie Edwards represents clients in asset-backed securitizations, as well as other structured finance transactions.

A history of deep legal knowledge

During law school, Maggie served as an executive editor on the Wake Forest Law Review and maintained active membership in the Wake Forest Moot Court Board. These activities showcase her commitment to excellence in legal analysis and advocacy. Maggie published original scholarship in the Wake Forest Law Review, which underscores her dedication to staying at the forefront of legal discourse. Additionally, she spent a semester participating in the law school's Veterans Legal Clinic, where she advocated for a client seeking a discharge characterization upgrade.
