Using practical experience to cut through complex matters

Michael has spent his career helping individuals and companies within the financial industry manage their compliance needs, and loves working within the intricate web of rules supporting our financial system.

Prior to Katten, he gained hands-on experience working for one of America's largest banks as a retail branch compliance manager. He educated staff on their regulatory responsibilities under countless financial rules ranging from the Truth in Lending Act (TILA) to the Community Reinvestment Act (CRA). He also investigated internal and external fraud, and he studied to become a regional authority on implementation of the Bank Secrecy Act (BSA).

During law school, Michael enhanced his regulatory acumen in a variety of courses and earned the Kirkland & Ellis Scholars award in Securities Regulation. He also expanded his interests to criminal law as an editor on the Journal of Criminal Law and Criminology.

After graduation, he developed his litigation and investigatory skills at the Federal Defender Program as Katten's Public Interest Fellow. At the Federal Defender, he helped his clients achieve optimal outcomes in the face of daunting criminal charges, including securities fraud, embezzlement, honest services, and SBA loan fraud.
