Kitae Jeong focuses his practice on real estate investment and finance. He provides thoughtful, efficient legal counsel grounded in clear communication and a client-focused perspective.

Prioritizing client success

Kitae honed his legal research and drafting skills through his experience at the Law Office of the Cook County Public Defender and served as an executive editor of the Northwestern Journal of International Law and Business. Prior to law school, he enhanced his communication and problem-solving abilities as a homeroom teacher.

Kitae brings an international perspective shaped by his internships across East Asia and the Gulf region. Those experiences enable him to provide clients with nuanced support across a range of legal matters.
