Dylan Londrigan concentrates his practice on mergers and acquisitions, private equity deals, and corporate governance, representing businesses across several industries.

A problem-solver dedicated to client service and detail

Prior to joining Katten, Dylan worked in engineering consulting for three years on behalf of industrial facilities nationwide. This experience, along with a legal externship at a leading Chicago technology startup company, drove home the importance of excellent client service and understanding business needs.

During law school, Dylan served as a law review editor and teaching assistant in both legal writing and transactional writing, which he credits for his emphasis on clear communication and attention to detail.
