Dillon Rodriguez represents publicly traded companies, officers, directors and financial institutions in securities class-action suits and complex commercial litigation. Drawing on his experience as a law clerk in the Southern District of New York, Dillon provides clients with the insight needed to prevail at critical junctures in civil litigation.

Skilled securities law counsel with a wide-ranging knowledge base

Versatile in tackling a diverse range of legal matters, Dillon's litigation experience extends to civil litigation in state and federal courts, adversary proceedings in bankruptcy courts, internal investigations, regulatory enforcement proceedings and arbitrations.

After litigating for two years at Katten, Dillon served as a law clerk for the Honorable Robert W. Lehrburger in the Southern District of New York.

While earning his JD, he was an editor for the Georgetown Law Journal, where he was awarded the Georgetown Law Journal Meritorious Service Award, which is presented to graduating members "whose hard work and spirit as non-Senior Board members made an outstanding contribution to the journal." He also interned at the US Securities and Exchange Commission in the Enforcement Division. Before law school, Dillon worked with a trading software company, gleaning insight into global capital markets and execution management for hedge funds, proprietary trading firms and broker-dealers.
