Alix Zelener focuses her practice on businesses and high net-worth individuals in various disputes, focused on bringing her clients the optimal solution whether that's with or without a trial.

Trial-tested complex litigator delivering efficient, business-minded strategies and results

Alix brings trial-tested judgment and efficient execution to complex civil and commercial disputes in state and federal courts. Prior to joining Katten, she had exposure to a broad scope of cases, and tried and won cases including a jury victory for the parks division of an American multinational mass media and entertainment conglomerate. She also routinely handled high-stakes motion practice, discovery and trial preparation. Alix is particularly known for her meticulous case development, persuasive writing, and ability to translate legal strategy into results. She is passionate about solving problems pragmatically — moving cases toward favorable resolutions while staying ready for trial.
