Dobrochna Cieslik is a multilingual lawyer with extensive experience across capital markets, derivatives, financial regulation and complex investigations. She has a proven track record advising on high-stakes cross-border regulatory matters, structured products, and compliance frameworks within leading international law firms and professional services providers.

A wide range of knowledge stemming from broad experience

Dobrochna combines deep private practice knowledge with valuable in-house perspective gained via a client secondment at a major financial services provider. Having studied and gained professional experience in Germany and Poland before moving to and qualifying as a solicitor in the UK, she is comfortable navigating both civil and common law cultures. In her role at Katten, Dobrochna focuses on representing major investment banks, private equity funds and corporate clients across UK, European and US markets, advising on the structuring of derivatives products and related transactions involving derivatives and other financial instruments. In addition, Dobrochna participates in volunteering and pro bono initiatives and was featured in the 2024 Pro Bono Recognition List of England and Wales.
