Joshua Rubenstein, partner and national chair of the Private Wealth Department, has written a chapter for the International Comparative Legal Guide's book "Private Client Laws and Regulations 2022."

The chapter, "Pre-Immigration Planning Considerations for the HNW Client – Think Before You Leap," sets forth basic planning considerations for those seeking to come to the United States so they can "understand the potential ramifications, make informed decisions, and then take advantage of all the country has to offer with their eyes wide open."

The ICLG book covers common issues in private client law, namely pre-entry tax planning, connection factors, taxation issues on inward investment, succession planning, trusts and foundations, immigration issues and tax treaties in 29 jurisdictions.
