

31st Annual Economics of Diagnostic Imaging 2016: National Symposium

Presented by Educational Symposia

October 20–23, 2016

Health Care partner Ken Davis will present "'To Be or Not to Be' Affiliated with a Radiology Physician Practice Management Company (PPMC)" at 8:40 a.m. and "Site Neutrality: The Impact on Outpatient Imaging Strategies with Hospital Partners" at 10:55 a.m. at the 31st Annual Economics of Diagnostic Imaging 2016: National Symposium – How to Adapt, Overcome and Succeed in a Time of Disruption, Challenge and Uncertainty on Friday, October 21. Ken's sessions are part of a two-day course that will enable attendees to:

- analyze how radiology is measured, valued and reimbursed in alternative medical systems from ACOs to the VA;
- develop a detailed understanding of the threats to radiology practices posed by governmental changes, corporations and changing hospital patterns;
- receive insider briefings on how the ACR's advocacy group, economics commission and the Neiman Policy Institute can help you and your practice;
- discuss how updated and novel forms of IT can help you in achieving your goals within your practice as well as with hospitals and other allied partners; and
- prepare for the next waves of change in the private sector.
