

Legaltech West

June 12-13, 2017

San Francisco Bay Area office managing partner Lily Chinn will co-present the "Managing Expectations in a Government Investigation" session during the Legaltech West conference at 12:30 p.m. on Tuesday, June 13. A growing body of federal agency guidance seeks to incentivize companies and individuals to provide material assistance to the investigating agency. Under the Obama administration, many companies found it difficult to obtain cooperation credit, and for those who received credit, it was difficult to identify tangible benefits. Will President Trump's new administration change that? This session will discuss the cooperation regimes at the SEC and DOJ as well as expectations for the future of cooperation standards across these agencies as the Trump administration settles into governing.

For more information, click here.