

32nd Annual Economics of Diagnostic Imaging 2017: National Symposium

Presented by Educational Symposia

October 26–29

Ken Davis, a partner in the Health Care practice, will be a featured speaker at the 32nd Annual Economics of Diagnostic Imaging 2017: National Symposium. He will present "Besides Being a Good Radiology Group, Are We Doing Everything We Can Be Doing?" at 2:30 p.m. (ET) on Thursday, October 26. He will offer insight into what is driving change for radiology groups, important things to consider for exclusive provider agreements, and pros and cons to developing such agreements. The presentation will include a look at teleradiology, CINs, ACOs, physician practice management company (PPMC) affiliations and technical component (TC) conversions. Ken will present "Mergers and Acquisitions in Radiology—Reports from the Frontlines of National Companies and Private Equity Firms" at 10:45 a.m. (ET) on Friday, October 27. He will discuss the role private equity firms are playing in radiology mergers and acquisitions, as well as provide a deeper dive into physician practice management companies (PPMCs) and their objectives. Also on October 27, Ken will present "Thoughts from a "Premarital" Counselor on How to Have a Successful Marriage (Merger)" at 1:30 p.m. (ET). This presentation will explore types of mergers, the process for merging and legal and regulatory issues to consider, and significant questions that should be answered prior to a merger.
