

Katten Ad Chat

Presented by Katten

May 10, 2023

Katten will present its inaugural "Ad Chat" event at 2:00 p.m. (ET) on Wednesday, May 10, hosted by Advertising, Marketing and Promotions partner and chair Christopher Cole.

Katten "Ad Chat" is a new webinar series featuring industry leaders at the forefront of business and legal issues affecting the advertising space. Hosted by Katten partner Chris Cole, each segment will involve wide-ranging, thought-provoking conversations on timely topics.

In our first episode, we welcome pioneering ad-industry watchdog Claire Atkin, of checkmyads.org. Claire and her team make it their mission to uncover the sources of online disinformation, which often obtain power and money from unwitting advertisers. As advertisers pour billions of dollars each year into digital advertising campaigns, many do not have the information they need to follow where their advertisements ultimately display. As a result, some of the internet's most notorious purveyors of disinformation, hate and division reap millions of dollars through ad revenue.

Chris and Claire will discuss the relationship between online disinformation and advertising dollars and how companies can better monitor where their investments in digital advertising go.

About Claire Atkin

Claire Atkin is co-founder and CEO of Check My Ads, the adtech industry's first watchdog. As a leading brand safety advocate, she is a trusted advisor to Fortune 500 brands, government officials, journalists and industry leaders. Her work to build new sustainable standards in digital advertising while dismantling the ad-funded disinformation economy has been recognized in New York Magazine, the New York Times, The Guardian, WIRED, El Pais and more. As a brand safety advocate, she holds the surveillance adtech industry accountable for abuses against advertisers and consumers in the popular newsletter BRANDED. She has received Adweek's Young Innovators Award and Fast Company's Most Innovative Media Agency. Her work intersects the economics of digital marketing, media, and disinformation to expose where ads end up online and guide advertisers on how to regain control over their ad campaigns to align their advertising dollars with their corporate values.
