WEBINAR

The Global Impact of DORA: Setting a New Standard for Operational Resilience in Financial Services

Presented by *FStech

March 11, 2025

Financial Markets and Funds Partner Nathaniel Lalone will co-present FStech's on-demand webinar, "The Global Impact of DORA: Setting a New Standard for Operational Resilience in Financial Services."

This webinar will examine how the Digital Operational Resilience Act (DORA) drives a global shift toward stricter operational resilience requirements, providing financial firms with challenges and opportunities. The speakers will discuss how DORA's focus on continuous risk assessments, incident reporting and supply chain transparency inspires similar regulations in the United States, UK, Asia-Pacific and beyond. They will also explore the importance of harmonizing resilience strategies across jurisdictions in an increasingly interconnected financial ecosystem.

With ransomware and advanced cyber threats on the rise, this session will highlight DORA's emphasis on robust testing, proactive risk management, and minimizing concentration risks. Participants will gain actionable insights into how DORA's principles can be leveraged to ensure compliance, enhance global competitiveness, build digital trust and secure long-term resilience in a volatile environment.

This timely webinar will provide an insightful analysis of how financial institutions can turn compliance challenges into long-term resilience and competitive advantage opportunities.
