

Securities Litigation & Enforcement Institute 2006

Presented by the Practising Law Institute

September 11–12, 2006

As complex securities cases continue to surge, and the stakes get even higher, the need to stay current and develop new strategies and tactics grows even more important. Partner Bruce G. Vanyo will join a faculty of leading practitioners, SEC officials, federal prosecutors and judges that will discuss the latest case law, enforcement initiatives, emerging trends and breaking developments.

Bruce Vanyo will serve as a panelist in the session “Defending the Securities Class Action” on Monday, September 11 at 10:30 a.m. This session will cover the following topics:

- Pleading motions
- Handling "confidential witnesses"
- Dealing with the problem of multiple fronts
- Preparing for trial: in Limine motions, Daubert motions, and other pre-trial battles
- AOL/Time Warner issues
