SPEAKING ENGAGEMENT

The Rapidly Expanding Duties of Counsel in Crisis Management

Presented by the Chicago Bar Association

December 8, 2008

Partner Sheldon Zenner will serve as a panelist.

The unprecedented turmoil in the global capital and energy markets places significant and increasing responsibility on lawyers. Given the role of counsel, often as the oversight authority in crisis management, current economic conditions demand a critical evaluation of the confluence of legal, ethical, and resource requirements which will enable lawyers to carry out their duties effectively and comprehensively.

Topics include:

- Emerging legal issues
- Resource needs
- Data management
- Ethical requirements
- Crisis team building
- Navigating conflicts
- Government relations and third party alliances
- Protecting enterprise value over the long term
