

Joshua Rubenstein Quoted by New York State Bar Association on its Trusts and Estates Institute

November 7, 2024

In a New York State Bar Association article on its upcoming Estates and Trusts Institute, Partner Joshua Rubenstein, National Chair of Katten's Private Wealth Department, was quoted on the immense value provided by the day-long program.

"You're getting all the material you would get in a national conference staying relatively local to the tri-state area," said Joshua. "The one-day format has become popular."

The conference is meant to cover a more diverse mix of topics than other similar events. "Knowing a little something about taxes, a little something about administration, and a little something about litigation, makes you better at all three," Joshua who will be speaking at this year's event said.
