January 14, 2026

Katten Partner and Global Chair of the Private Wealth Department, Joshua Rubenstein, authored a chapter in the International Comparative Legal Guide - Private Client 2026, discussing the opportunities and risks foreign high-net-worth individuals face when choosing to move to the United States.

The chapter explores the great opportunities that moving to America presents, but also highlights the risks of arriving without guidance. It goes on to explain that planning is essential for foreigners coming to the United States, helping them understand consequences, make informed choices and benefit from the country while managing trade-offs.
