Katten Duo Supports Exelon's Climate Change Investment Initiative for Seventh Consecutive Year

August 17, 2026

Entrepreneurial Ventures Partner Jeffrey Patt and Corporate Partner Fabiola Fox have served as ongoing counsel to the Exelon Foundation's (Exelon) Climate Change Investment Initiative (2c2i), which invests in early-stage companies building practical climate and energy solutions with strong commercial potential and meaningful community impact, and recently added two new companies to its portfolio.

Katten is proud to support Exelon's 2c2i program for the seventh year in a row. The new companies added to the 2c2i cohort reflect Exelon's commitment to supporting solutions that improve affordability, make better use of resources, and contribute to a more reliable and sustainable energy future. Exelon's press release recognized Katten as a law firm sponsor and for our provision of "in-kind legal services in support of the 2c2i climate investment program."
