FOCUS: Employment Litigation and Counseling

Privacy, Data and Cybersecurity

United Kingdom

Brigitte Weaver is an employment attorney who focuses on a broad range of contentious and non-contentious employment issues. She has served both employers and individuals as clients. Brigitte's contentious experience covers both employment tribunal claims and High Court Litigation with a particular focus on restrictive covenant disputes. Litigious work also includes issues of unfair dismissal, discrimination claims and breach of contract. Her non-contentious experience comprises employee relations advisory matters including incentivization, complex regulatory conduct issues as well as corporate support work on Private Equity and M&A transactions.

Employment counsel should complement a company's culture and brand

Brigitte handles the full range of employment law issues from day-to-day queries to tribunal litigation, commercial transactions and data privacy. Her clients come from a wide range of industries, including TV production, hospitality and leisure, but predominantly regulated financial services. She enjoys advising her clients not just on the law, but on the impact that their application of the law will have on employees, their colleagues and their company brand.

Brigitte also encourages clients to consider what motivates someone to pursue a claim and how it impacts the wider workforce. Other considerations are the effect on a company's reputation as an employer, overall employee productivity and incentivization.
