Katten Grows Real Estate Practice in New York

(NEW YORK) Katten announced today that Eddy Park has joined the firm as partner in its Real Estate practice in New York, where he will focus on complex transactions and strategic matters related to mixed-income and affordable residential developments.

“Eddy is a highly skilled attorney who has a passion for working in the affordable housing space,” said Kenneth G. Lore, chair of Katten’s East Coast Real Estate practice. “His extensive background in real estate, law and quasi-government agencies will help guide our clients through all stages of affordable housing deals.”

Park previously served as in-house counsel for a US government-sponsored enterprise (GSE), where he advised transaction teams on multifamily financing matters for both conventional and affordable housing projects. Prior to that, he garnered international law firm experience in the commercial real estate industry.

In private practice, Park represented a range of real estate stakeholders including developers, pension and private equity funds, real estate investment trusts, sovereign wealth funds, and asset and investment managers. He also has extensive experience with multiple types of commercial real estate transactions, including financings, acquisitions and dispositions, and joint ventures.

Recognized as the 2022 “Law Firm of the Year” in Real Estate Law by U.S. News, Katten has one of the largest and most sophisticated real estate practices in the United States. Its Affordable Housing and Community Development group is comprised of real estate and tax attorneys who have helped create innovative financing structures for affordable housing, workforce housing, mixed-income housing and community development projects, utilizing public-private partnerships, federal and state tax credits, taxable bonds, tax-exempt bonds and private equity. Recently, the group welcomed Louise Carroll, former New York City Housing Preservation and Development commissioner as well as Michael Gaynor, former general counsel and chief operating officer for Chicago’s Departments of Housing and Planning & Development.

Katten is a full-service law firm with approximately 700 attorneys in locations across the United States and in London and Shanghai. Clients seeking sophisticated, high-value legal services turn to Katten for counsel locally, nationally and internationally. The firm's core areas of practice include corporate, financial markets and funds, insolvency and restructuring, intellectual property, litigation, real estate, structured finance and securitization, transactional tax planning, private credit and private wealth. Katten represents public and private companies in numerous industries, as well as a number of government and nonprofit organizations and individuals.
