Katten Moves to New State-of-the-Art Georgetown Office Space to Accommodate Growth

Firm will be largest tenant in newly constructed building at 2900 K Street, NW

WASHINGTON – Katten Muchin Rosenman LLP is pleased to announce the relocation of its Washington office to 2900 K Street, NW in Georgetown, next to the Swedish Embassy on the Potomac River. The firm is taking 72,000 square feet of Class A space in the recently constructed, cutting-edge building in order to accommodate the growth of its Washington practice. Katten, which spent the previous 18 years at 1025 Thomas Jefferson St., NW, will be the largest tenant in the building. The firm will occupy three floors, with the main floor housing a state-of-the-art conference center and attorney and administrative offices occupying the other two floors.

“We are very excited about the move to our new office space, which will provide our attorneys and staff with the most advanced technology and resources available, enabling them to continue to provide our clients with the high level of service they have come to expect from Katten,” said Roger P. Furey, managing partner of Katten’s Washington office. “In addition, we consistently hear from clients that they enjoy visiting us in Georgetown, which is such a unique and beautiful place to practice law, and our new office space at the K Street gateway to Georgetown will keep us there for many years to come.”

The firm’s new address is 2900 K Street, NW, Washington, D.C. 20007.
