Katten Attorneys Lauded by Chambers Global 2018

(CHICAGO) Katten Muchin Rosenman LLP announced today that attorneys Henry Bregstein, Guy Dempsey, Chris DiAngelo, Kevin M. Foley, Arthur W. Hahn, Carolyn H. Jackson, Joshua S. Rubenstein and Herbert S. Wander were honored in the 2018 edition of Chambers Global. Additionally, Katten's Futures and Derivatives, Structured Finance and Securitization and Financial Services groups were touted as leading legal practices in the United States.

Bregstein, global co-chair of Katten's Financial Services practice in New York, was recognized in the "USA, Investment Funds: Hedge Funds" category. Chambers Global featured quotes from onlookers complimenting him as an attorney who "knows the market and all the players very well," and is "clear and commercial in his advice." He was portrayed as being "commercially driven and technically strong."

Dempsey, of counsel for the firm's Futures and Derivatives practice in New York, was recognized in the "USA, Capital Markets: Derivatives" category. Chambers Global praised him for his "particularly strong focus on OTC derivatives, particularly margin swaps."

DiAngelo, managing partner of Katten's New York office, was recognized in the "USA, Capital Markets: Securitisation" category. Chambers Global highlighted his experience, mentioning, "In recent years he represented Aspen Capital and its affiliated REIT, Great Ajax, in the securitisation of a series of mortgage loans."

Foley, a partner of the Financial Services practice in Chicago, was recognized in the "USA, Capital Markets: Derivatives" category. Chambers Global raved about his extensive knowledge, remarking how he was described as a "fixture on the futures market." One peer added, "He's a good technician who knows the law well."

Hahn, global co-chair of Katten's Financial Services practice in Chicago, was recognized in the "USA, Capital Markets: Derivatives" category. Chambers Global cited his skills advising on enforcement and regulatory matters and noted high praise from clients for his "wealth of industry knowledge along with his keen business sense."
