

Insurance and Health Care Fraud Litigation

Overview

Katten's Insurance and Health Care Fraud Litigation group is a unique practice that works with major health, workers' compensation, and property and casualty insurers nationwide in developing investigation, claims handling and litigation strategies to detect, prevent and deter insurance fraud and to recover money obtained through fraud.

Investigation, claims handling and litigation strategies

Our attorneys employ analytics and other methods to identify and investigate fraud. We advise clients on proactive steps to detect fraud and mitigate exposure through the design of effective claims handling practices. When appropriate, we aggressively pursue litigation strategies to shut down fraudulent activity, recover payments obtained by fraud and deter future fraudulent conduct.

Multiple jurisdictions

Our national platform provides us with deep and nuanced knowledge of the unique claims and litigation environments of key jurisdictions throughout the country. We help our clients navigate these jurisdictions, addressing each with risk management and litigation strategies fully attuned to business objectives. We have successfully litigated more than 100 RICO, fraud and qui tam actions in federal and state courts across the country and have established controlling legal principles on several issues that are of pressing interest to our clients.

Broad experience

Our team includes several former federal prosecutors and others with extensive experience handling matters involving:

- Corporate practice of medicine, kickbacks and self-referral under federal and state laws; billings for services that were not performed or medically necessary; and the manipulation of billing codes to misrepresent services and inflate charges
- Patterns and practices of those who engage in insurance and health care fraud
- Numerous areas of medicine, such as acupuncture, chiropractic, physical therapy, orthopedics, neurology, pain management, surgery, psychiatry, psychology and dentistry
- Various forms of diagnostic testing, such as imaging studies, neuropsychological testing, electrodiagnostics, range of motion and muscle strength tests, pulmonology tests, sleep studies, and laboratory diagnostics
- Durable medical equipment, orthotics and pharmaceuticals
