June 17, 2020 – New York State Enacted Legislation.

- Governor Cuomo signs into law Senate Bill 8243 (Ch. 112, Laws of New York, 2020) and Senate Bill 8428 (Ch. 126, Laws of New York, 2020, which, among other things, amends Ch. 112 of the Laws of New York, 2020). These laws provide in relevant part that a “regulated institution” is required to (i) make applications for forbearance of any payment due on a residential mortgage of a property located in New York widely available to any “qualified mortgagor” (an individual (1) whose primary residence is located in New York and is encumbered by a home loan and (2) who demonstrates financial hardship as a result of COVID-19 during the “covered period”) who, during the covered period, is in arrears or on a “trial period plan” or who has applied for loss mitigation and (ii) grant such forbearance of all monthly payments due with respect to the mortgage secured by the qualified mortgagor’s primary residence in New York for a period of up to 180 days, with the option to extend such forbearance for up to an additional 180 days provided that the mortgagor demonstrates continued financial hardship. Forbearances may be backdated to March 7, 2020 and existing forbearances pursuant to Executive Order 202.9 are taken into account in measuring the duration of the forbearance. The mortgagor shall have the option to extend the term of the loan by the length of the forbearance and the regulated institution may not charge additional interest, late fees or penalties on the forbore payment. The mortgagor shall have the option to repay the accumulated arrears on a monthly basis for the remaining term of the loan or to request a loan modification for different repayment terms. If the parties cannot reasonably agree on a loan modification, the regulated institution is required to offer to defer the arrears (without interest) until the maturity date (or earlier refinancing or repayment).

For purposes of this statute, (i) a “regulated institution” is a New York regulated banking organization and any New York regulated mortgage servicer entity subject to supervision of the Department of Financial Services and (ii) the “covered period” is the period from March 7, 2020 until the date that none of the provisions that closed or otherwise restricted public private businesses or places of public accommodation, or required postponement or cancellation of all non-essential gatherings of individuals of any size for any reason in Executive Orders 202.3, 202.4, 202.5, 202.6, 202.7, 202.8, 202.10, 202.11, 202.13 or 202.14, as extended by Executive Orders 202.28 and 202.31 and as further extended by future Executive Orders

(which would include Executive Order 202.55), continue to apply in the county of the qualified mortgagor's residence.

This forbearance requirements does not apply to and does not affect any mortgage loans made, insured, purchased or securitized by any agency or instrumentality of the United States, any government sponsored enterprise, or a federal home loan bank or a corporate governmental agency of the state constituted as a political subdivision and public benefit corporation, or the rights and obligations of any lender, issuer, servicer or trustee of such obligations, including servicers for the Government National Mortgage Association.

The obligation of a regulated institution to grant forbearance relief is subject to the regulated institution having sufficient capital and liquidity to meet its obligations and to operate in a safe and sound manner.

May 11, 2020 – New York Forward

- Governor Cuomo releases the New York Forward phased reopening plan for the reopening of non-essential businesses on a regional and industry basis. Each region that satisfies the seven metrics for reopening non-essential businesses will reopen businesses in phases, with at least two weeks in between each phase to allow state and local leaders to monitor the effects of the reopening and ensure hospitalization and infection rates are not increasing. The phase-in plan prioritizes businesses that the state has determined have a greater economic impact and inherently low risks of infection for the workers and customers, followed by other businesses the state considers to have less economic impact, and those that present a higher risk of infection spread. The phased-in reopening of non-essential businesses will not permit the regions to authorize the opening of attractions or businesses that would draw a large number of visitors from outside the local area.
